While dogs with five of the most popular names (Lucy, Bailey, Daisy, Charlie and Max) will be the stars of the Same Name Dog Days, Just Right knows that all dogs have unique nutritional needs and preferences, which is why all dogs, even those that don't have one of the most popular names, are invited to attend. During each event, same-named dogs will pose for pictures creating a collage that captures the unique breeds, behaviors and personalities of canines who share the same name.

"Same Name Dog Day highlights just how different dogs can be from one another, even if they share a name," said Katie Saykes, brand manager. "All owners know their dogs better than anyone else. But, what they may not know is that their dog's habits, preferences and personal details can be combined with Purina's nutritional expertise to determine their dog's ideal meal. Just Right by Purina's Same Name Dog Days are a one-of-a-kind opportunity to celebrate every dog's unique qualities."

The event space will be fenced in to protect pooch participants and feature:

- An interactive video booth: This oversized doghouse functions as a photo and video booth for dog owners to create sharable content introducing their pups and showing what makes them special. After exiting the doghouse, dog owners will receive an email with their video and photos for social sharing.
- Customized dog tags: All dogs in attendance will receive a new, personalized tag made on the spot.
- Purina veterinary experts: Onsite experts will be available to share information with dog owners regarding nutritional needs or other topics.
- Information kiosks: Dog owners can discover their pups' ideal blend of personalized food by entering in their traits and tastes at the kiosks. And at each event, the first 50 dogs named Lucy, Bailey, Daisy, Charlie or Max will receive a coupon code valid for a free six-pound bag of their dog's unique blend.
